Murder In First Degree, Same With Life Term Recommended, or Acquittal, Possible, Judge Trenchard Instructs Jurors

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 13.—The Hauptmann jury had lunch—sandwiches and coffee—brought to it at 1:40 P. M. today. This was generally interpreted as meaning that no agreement was immediately in prospect.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 13.—The jury trying Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the kidnaping and murder of Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., began its deliberations today after being instructed that it could return one of three possible verdicts—murder in the first degree, the same with recommendation for life imprisonment, or acquittal.

The final charge of the court paid particular attention to the disputed reliability of the most important state witnesses, Dr. John F. (Jafie) Condon and Amandus Hochmuth (correct) and to the defense theories that a gang perpetrated the crime and that the dead Isador Fisch gave Hauptmann the ransom money he had.

"Do you believe that?" were the concluding words of the court's remarks about each of the defense contentions.

Hear Defense Exceptions
Defense exceptions to the charge were heard after the jury retired at 11:30 a. m.

Justice Trenchard's charge, though brief, was sharp and to the point. It reviewed a number of defense contentions with conclusions of "Do you believe that?"

On the state's important ladder evidence, the court asked the jurors:

"Does not the evidence satisfy you that at least a part of the wood from which the ladder was built came out of the flooring of the attic of the defendant?"

"If you find that the murder was committed by the defendant in perpetrating a burglary it is murder in the first degree," the court said, "even though the killing was unintentional."

"If there is a reasonable doubt that the murder was committed by the defendant in perpetrating a burglary, he must be acquitted."

"If you find the defendant guilty of murder in the first degree you may, if you see fit, by your verdict and as a part thereof recommend imprisonment at hard labor for life."

Condon's Reliability
He asked the jurors if there was any doubt in their minds as to the reliability of the testimony of Dr. John F. (Jafie) Condon, the ransom intermediary who said he paid Hauptmann Lindbergh's $50,000.

He asked them if they believed

ACTION ON BACK PAY DEMANDED

Health Board Calls For Enforcement of Court Order

The city board of health today threatened legal action against the city to obtain back wages for the sanitary officer and public health nurse which common pleas court a little more than a year ago ordered the city to pay. Health Commissioner R. T. Holzbach said the sum now involved totals about $1,300.

The board has instructed Commissioner Holzbach to notify city council, that, in event a new appropriation ordinance is made by the lawmakers without including the back pay of the employees of the health board the health commissioner will be instructed to start action to levy against the property of the city to satisfy the order of the courts.

Potters' Demand For Wage Increase Will Be Discussed

Representatives of the United States Potters association today announced an agreement to meet officials of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters at Miami, Fla., Feb. 26, to discuss the N. B. O. P. demand for a general 25 per cent wage increase.

Demand of the potters was filed with the manufacturers two weeks ago and the date for the parley was set at a meeting of the two bodies yesterday.

ROME IS DEFIED BY ETHIOPIANS

Holds Italy Responsible For Conflicts; Troop Movements Getting Under Way

ROME, Feb. 13.—The Italian government was said authoritatively today to be ready to spend $850,000,000 on a two-year military campaign in Africa in the event hostilities break out with Ethiopia.

The Italian military plans became known as Negrasda Yesus, Ethiopian charge d'affaires, handed Fulvio Suvich, under-secretary of foreign affairs, Emperor Haile Selassie's defiant retort holding Italy responsible for the frontier conflicts which precipitated the present crisis.

The Ethiopian communication, a government spokesman said, created a "serious situation." He described as undiplomatic procedure the action of the Ethiopian envoy in making his sovereign's message public before it had been presented to the Italian government.

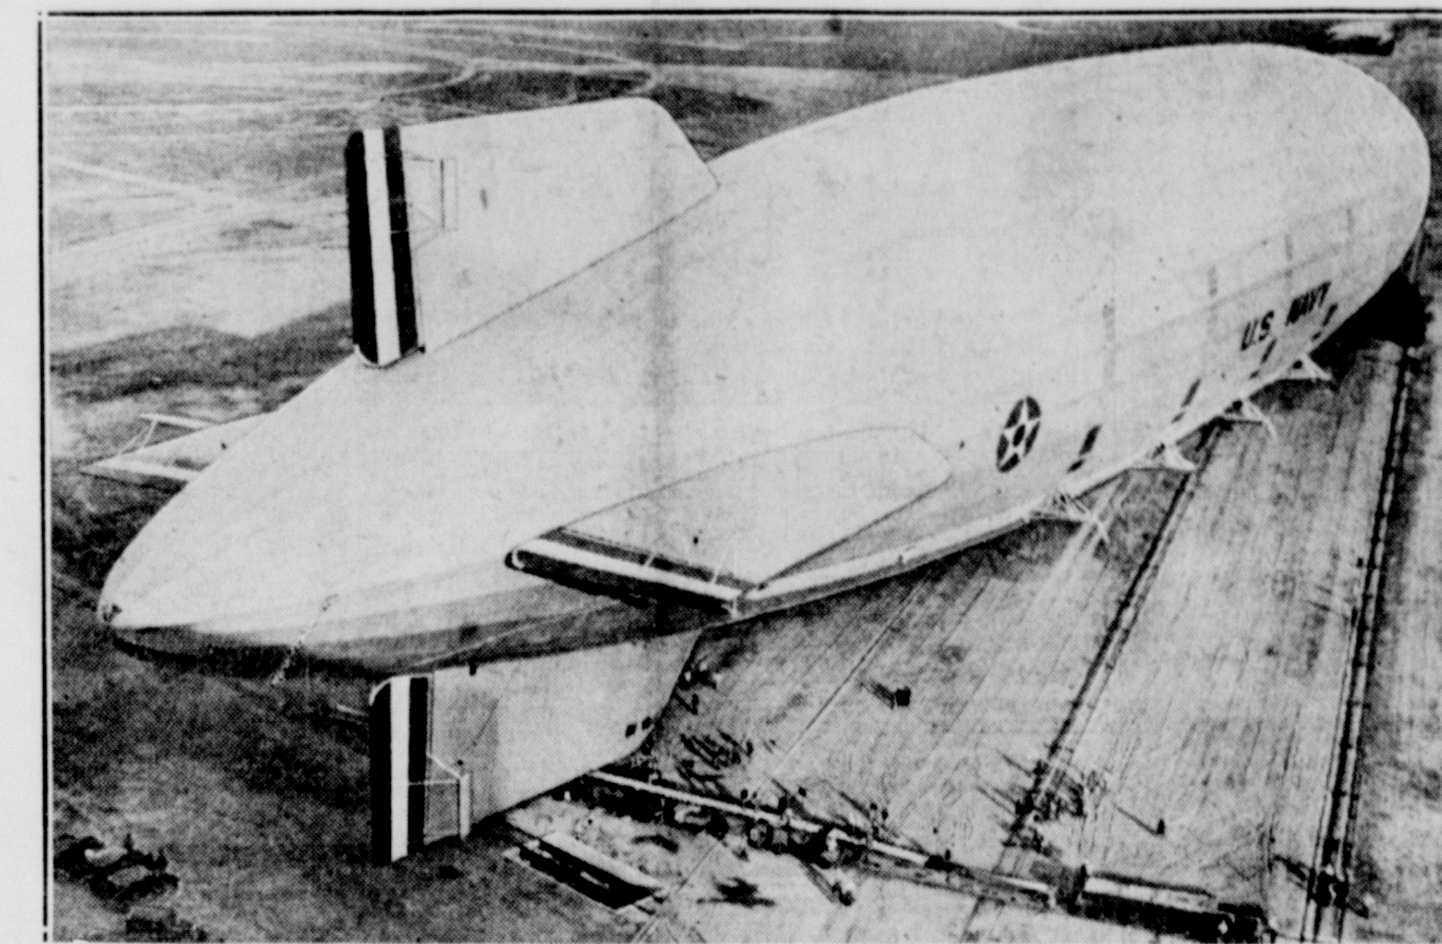

It was learned Italy is recruiting 5,000 physicians for colonial service. A battalion of 300 Fascist militia left Rome for Sicily at 7 a. m. with full colonial equipment.

The militia marched to the railroad station by a circuitous route skirting the main streets. Every effort is being made to keep the troop movements from disturbing the capital.

The only information on the crisis published so far in Italian newspapers has been two government communiques Monday, one announcing the mobilization and the other the skirmish at Addis.

FOUNDRY CHIEF HITS NEW DEAL

Alliance Man Would Like To See Another Lincoln In White House

Robert C. Hopkins, head of the Brass & Bronze foundry in Alliance, Ohio, today scored the New Deal for its lack of accomplishments, its dangerous tendencies toward Communism and its political machinery.

Hopkins scored the New Deal for its lack of accomplishments, its dangerous tendencies toward Communism and its political machinery. The problems which confronted Lincoln were no different from the problems of today, but the attitude in Washington has changed he said.

The President was either honestly deluded or viciously minded, Hopkins declared. All his advisors have been students of Communism and Soviet Russia, all famous for their utterances in favor of isms not friendly to our government and its institutions.

Bureaus and commissions have been placed in charge of radicals, he added.

These men are not so much concerned about recovery as they are this new social order, according to the speaker.

"The New Deal will not permit of analysis. It is a name without a definition when it comes to constructive results. There is as much confusion in Washington today as existed two and three years ago."

"Prices are higher, wages lower and there is more unemployment and want after a profligate expenditure of the public wealth. Congress has no courage and no ability to stem this tide. Officials in Washington are simply intent upon building a mammoth political machine. They have their ears to the ground only for votes."

Hopkins said he didn't blame the President so much—he simply rot in bad company and he knew what was happening—He predicted a complete overthrow of the administration.

Housing Program Wins Approval of Civic Committee

The Salem Better Housing Campaign was strongly endorsed as a worthwhile project by the civic committee of Salem Business Bureau when that committee held its organization meeting last night.

Property owners are urged by the committee to cooperate in every way possible with the Better Housing Program as it is believed that the existing shortage of better grade residences can be partially overcome by repairing and improving some of the older houses.

The civic committee also discussed several other projects which will improve living conditions in Salem and on which action is hoped for in the near future. The committee is interested in receiving suggestions for civic improvement and it is requested that communications be addressed to the civic committee, Salem Business Bureau, 538 East State st.

New Relief Director Appointed By State

Merle Paul of Canton Named 'Acting' Chief; Lowry's Services to 'Terminate' Friday

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13.—W. A. Walls, state relief director, this afternoon announced the following appointments:

Merle Paul, of Canton, to be acting relief director in Columbiana county effective Feb. 15, succeeding Ed. M. Lowry, of Lisbon, whose services will be terminated Friday.

Paul, who has been work division manager for the Stark county relief administration, will serve as acting relief director in Columbiana county pending the appointment of the proper local man, Walls announced. For the time being Warren Hoffman, Stark county relief director, will look after the work that Paul has been performing in addition to his regular duties as director.

Waldo Walker, of Columbus, to be acting relief director of Trumbull county, succeeding John H. Rea, of Warren, whose services will be terminated tonight, on the ground of alleged "general inefficiency." No charges were filed against Rea, Walls said. Walker will serve as county relief director pending appointment of a local man.

Lee Patin, of Columbus, to succeed Waldo Walker as district engineer in charge of district No. 1, with headquarters at Akron. District No. 1 comprises 17 counties in Northeastern Ohio, including Cuyahoga, Mahoning, Stark, Summit and Trumbull.

Funds Available For Weak Schools March 1, Ohio Says

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13.—Hard-pressed school districts which had feared they would have to wait until July before receiving revenue from the sales tax received assurance today that funds would be made available to them about March 1.

The basis of their fear was a provision in the sales tax act stipulating the schools were to receive no money until after mandated funds had been appropriated.

The senate school's committee and State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy agreed last night to make $1,159,950 available to schools, each month.

The mandated funds consist of $6,000,000 for relief, $6,000,000 for old age pensions, $4,000,000 for retirement of selective sales tax bonds issue for relief purposes, and $1,000,000 for administration of the sales tax law.

The auditor and senate committee also allocated $773,300 a month for county governments and $333,333 a month to retire the selective sales tax bonds.

The senate committee had considered permitting school districts to issue anticipatory notes or script against expected sales tax revenue. On enabling legislation will be necessary to put into effect the plan adopted last night, the committee said.

Members of the committee who joined with Auditor Tracy in working out the arrangement are James Metzger, Cleveland; John F. Hunter, Toledo; John A. Lloyd, Portsmouth, and James M. Matthews, Jr., Clark county.

REAMS WOULD REMOVE THOMAS

Gov. Davey Hears Complete Report of Prison Probe

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13.—Frazier Reams today recommended to Governor Davey the permanent removal of Preston E. Thomas as Warden of Ohio penitentiary and the construction of a new prison.

He made the recommendations in a report on his recent investigation of the prison, which resulted in the suspension of Thomas and subsequently in the removal from the civil service classification of the warden's position.

Five statutory reasons were cited by Reams for the removal of Thomas. He urged a new penitentiary along modern lines to permit a program of segregation to keep separate first offenders, incorrigibles and habituals.

Suggests New Prison
Congressman Arthur P. Lamneck, (D) of Columbus recently urged Governor Davey to apply for federal public works funds to construct a new prison outside of the Columbus city limits. At various times, it has been suggested that if a new prison were built it should be located on an island in Lake Erie.

The last six pages of the 14-page report were devoted to Thomas, who, the report said, "is the oldest warden in the point of service in any of the United States."

"While it is entirely possible that in the earlier years of his service as warden he rendered good advice for those times, nevertheless the record clearly indicates that for the past ten years he has devoted more time and energy to maintaining his position and title as warden than to the administration of his office as such."

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—The giant dirigible Macon, destroyed by a sudden mysterious disaster, lay at the bottom of the Pacific ocean today, while 81 survivors were brought into San Francisco bay by cruisers of the United States fleet. Only two members of the crew were missing.

The tragic fate of every American-made giant dirigible the navy has possessed, overtook the queen of the skies as she neared her Sunnyvale base at sunset last night.

LAUNCH PROBES IN MACON CRASH

At Least Three Investigations Planned By Government

By THOMAS J. HAMILTON, JR., Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The controversy over fighting airships opened with vehemence today as the government prepared to launch at least three investigations into the crash of the dirigible Macon.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt and congressional leaders heard eagerly the later reports telling of the rescue of most of the crew.

Death Knell For Dirigibles?
A prediction that the crash, coming after the disaster to the Macon's sister ship Akron, would spell the "death knell" of lighter-than-air craft as a fighting arm of the navy came from Chairman Vinson (D. Ga.) of the house naval committee.

"We surely will investigate as soon as enough facts are available on which to base an investigation," he said.

The navy's high command, prepared on receipt of direct information from Admiral J. M. Reeves, commander of the fleet, to summon a naval board of inquiry into swift session. Representative Sirovich (D. N. Y.) chairman of the house patents committee, said his investigation into alleged industrial control of patents would be widened to inquire into the crash.

ROBBER SLAYS OHIO WOMAN, 83

Body Of Wealthy Widow Is Found By Neighbors; Victim Gagged, Hands Tied Together

(By Associated Press)
VAN Wert, O., Feb. 13.—Sheriff R. B. Stevens today looked for the trail of a robber who gagged and bound Mrs. Mary J. Woodruff, 83, wealthy widow, in her home here and left her to die on her bed.

Mrs. Woodruff's body was found late yesterday after a neighbor noticed a window of her house standing open. She apparently had been dead since Monday night, Coroner W. E. Beach said.

Coroner Beach said the widow apparently died from shock after she had been gagged with a silk handkerchief and an apron, and tied with a towel. Her hands were tied together and the body wrapped tightly in bed clothing.

Sheriff Stevens said that $100 an's nightgown.

All but one of her teeth were broken in the struggle with the attacker, who jammed cloth into her mouth. The house appeared to have been ransacked.

The victim's husband, W. W. Woodruff, retired farmer, died ten years ago. Only recently Mrs. Woodruff had financed the building of several houses.

Because she was attired in night clothing, officers reasoned that the intruder broke into the house some time Monday night.

Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Up to Jury Now

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 13.—Just reading Prosecutor Wilentz's speech. By the way, Wilentz wired me that no prosecution attorney had talked over the radio about the case. It's in the juror's hands now and not ours. So all our getting messed up in anger and arguments won't do us any good.

I wonder if the jurors' minds were made up early like all the rest of ours were. I have had a hunch somehow that it would be a hung jury. If it is, or if it's some other celebrated case, I wonder if they couldn't just sneak off in a back room somewhere with a judge, a jury and a few witnesses, and then do it like the Supreme court handles theirs—don't let us know anything till the decision.

Yours,

ARRANGEMENTS BY KREISLER

Musicians and music lovers don't know whether to be disgruntled or amused over the little joke Fritz Kreisler has been playing on them the last 30 years. A few who were let in on the secret years ago are enjoying the climax, and their attitude probably will be adopted universally after the first few days of excitement.

Kreisler arrangements for the violin are famous in their own right, without the benefit of the violinist's name. They are doubly famous now, because it has been revealed that he not only arranged the works he has included in his programs, but wrote the originals himself. Well known musicians to whom he gave credit for his compositions would have no reason to be angry, so why should listeners take offense?

Mr. Kreisler's explanation is a refreshing bit of modesty in a world hardened to aggressiveness. He was afraid to admit authorship of compositions he had written for fear they would not be accepted. It was easier to borrow the names of better known composers and take for himself only the credit for making arrangements for the violin.

It would have been a cruel hoax had not the compositions been acceptable. Musicians who know Mr. Kreisler intimately, however, could not bring themselves to suspect him of anything but the worthiest motives. Some of them were acquainted well enough with his style to recognize his compositions in spite of their assigned authorship. Civilization has been given a few worthy additions to its meager store of fine music. Skeptics have been given an artist, undoubtedly capable, who spent most of the mature years of his career playing his own excellent compositions and not taking credit for them.

TO RESTORE ORDER

It's likely that impartial observers of Italy's operations in Africa, incidental to defending Italian Somaliland and Eritrea, will notice a resemblance to Japan's operations in Manchuria.

The Italian government believes Ethiopia, inland neighbor of its African territories, is unable to control its armed nationals. These correspond to the "communists" and "bandits" of China. They have made raids on Italian military forces.

Therefore, to protect itself from casualties among its own nationals, Italy will undertake to subdue the unruly Ethiopians. How far the campaign will go is indeterminate. No one realized at first that Japan would find it necessary to get control of Manchuria.

Another point of resemblance is found in the fact that Italy, like Japan, is an intensely militaristic nation under Premier Mussolini's fascist government. Soldiers, guns, tanks, armored cars and airplanes deteriorate if they are not used. Powerful military machines need exercise to enable them to stay powerful. Strong governments which make extensive preparations for defense need to demonstrate their strength to convince impatient citizens everything is as it should be.

Ethiopia, like China, has appealed to the League of Nations for protection. The League has attempted to perform its function by calling for negotiations. Unfortunately for Ethiopia, incidents subsequent to its appeal have made it necessary for Italy to take more realistic steps. Direct action has been substituted for negotiations.

Perhaps Italy does not desire control of Ethiopia. However, it is obvious that by controlling virtually all the territory adjacent to Italian Somaliland and Eritrea on the seacoast it would have a Gibraltar of defense overlooking the Gulf of Aden and the Red Sea. Restoration of order in Ethiopia, as the story starts to unfold, promises to be as interesting as restoration of order in Manchuria.

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—Peter Arno, deservedly or not, is the society scribbler's top Romeo of the moment. Nearly every day he is barreled with a new Juliet—flying across the continent to see one who is ill, in Row A. at an opening with another or filling a liner's cabin with flowers for still another.

The fact is the tall, handsome cartoonist is an excellent peg upon which to hang such paragraphic romanticisms. Talented in music as well as his sketching, he is constantly abreast the gay breakers of life, a prototype of many novelists' hero in a modern love story.

His choppy career, too, provides a fitting aura. A runaway from Yale who organized an orchestra to tom-tom for Gilda Gray in a night club, lean days in the Paris attics, his tempestuous marriage to the brilliant Lois Long and a spectacular flyer into theatrical producing.

All this plus his ribald drawings which did so much to give The New Yorker's leg-up in formative days. Also that blacking brush meter that changed over night the long accepted formula for comic art. Too, with all his sophistication, he expresses shyness. That perhaps is the catch!

It was a brand of starry-eyed wishfulness that exhausted the dramatic critics recently in a personal halcyon, never before equaled, for Elizabeth Bergner, imported pee-wee from Germany via London. There was not even a mild peep from a dissembler. It was the first time, too, in years such an extravagant build-up did not collapse with the first night performance. Here was the biggest individual knock-out of the season. Her play, terrible.

Gloria Vanderbilt, in opening a gown shop, adds another headline name to those who have turned to trade. The list includes Cobina Wright, Marjorie Oelrichs, Marian Cooley, Mrs. Jack Stafford and a dozen others. Cobina Wright has likely endured the greatest hazing. And shown the greatest spunk. The cataclysm that engulfed her included the loss of a fortune, divorce and a series of operations. Yet she has won a place singing on the radio and carried on without whimpering. Non-whimperers win all of us these days.

There was a morsel for the feature writers, too, in the return of Charles E. Mitchell, the banker, to the financial scene a month ago. His comparatively small office space in Broad street indicated he was beginning again from scratch. The only throw-back to his more opulent days was the ever-present carnation in his lapel.

The scarcity of pawn-shops in mid-town is not another phase of the economic eclipse. There are a many as ever, but they have found more dignified activity. Any number are now in large office buildings and instead of the three familiar gold balls and blackened windows up here there is just the usual frosted door marked "Loans." The new locations brought customers who would not have visited the more conspicuous establishments.

Most newspapermen have had copious dealings with the pawn broker. I owned a watch that was hung up with unfailing regularity every Monday—or I went lunchless. The value was paid out many times in interest. Indeed it got to be a dreary and sullen transaction—the ticker on the counter and $4.75 out of the bill without a word between us. But my pawnshop name was rather hot-cha. To Mr. Solomon's clerk I was Rupert Q. Mortimer, a frivolous wordling who lived but for the moment. I've often wondered why I duded it up further with that Q.

There was another sure fire port of call during the hard-up stretches. Louis Katz, sleek and be-diamonded clerk at our theatrical hotel, was always, sleek him, good for a fiver without interest. He was the first blood I ever saw with manicured nails. So magnificent was their polish I stopped biting mine.

Probably the pile-up of years does it. Not so long ago I would dine out only where the lights were brightest, the jazz jazziest. Now on such excursions I am in constant search for the half-lit places with a muted tone. Everybody seems to be opening a restaurant these days. If I get around to it, I'm going to have the enterprise so muffled that the noisiest feature will be our whispering waiters. I have an idea Rudy Vallee would welcome a silent dining room now and then.

Objectors to Vaccinations

"Conscientious objectors" to vaccination are a stumbling block to the progress of science and medicine. Despite the successful results of vaccination against smallpox there remain many who oppose this procedure and urge others to do likewise. Fortunately for society such persons are in the minority.

A recent survey shows that there was less smallpox in United States and Canada in '33 than ever before and the records of 1934 indicate a further drop in this disease. In certain states where popular sentiment is against vaccination, outbreaks of smallpox continue to occur. This is a tragic situation since the disease could be completely eradicated if vaccination were enforced.

Where Vaccination Is Compulsory

In continental Europe where vaccination is compulsory smallpox has practically disappeared. In 1931 not a single case of smallpox was reported in Belgium, Bulgaria, Scotland, Germany, Italy, Luxembourg, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland and Yugoslavia. England and Wales, on the contrary, reported over 5,000 cases of smallpox during that year. In these two countries "conscientious objectors" are not forced to comply with the laws relating to vaccination.

The danger of an outbreak of smallpox must not be overlooked. Since we never know when we may be exposed to this disease, we can only guard against it by means of vaccination. This is especially important for infants, children and young adults.

Many persons neglect being vaccinated because they believe smallpox has been completely eradicated. This is a false impression. It is true that the disease is not as common as it was years ago, but it is still prevalent, especially in communities where vaccination is not encouraged.

Vaccination Not Harmful

Another reason for objecting to vaccination against smallpox is the erroneous belief that vaccination is painful and dangerous. Vaccination is a scientific and sanitary procedure in which the dead germs of smallpox are applied through a simple pinprick with a sterile needle.

Following the pin-prick, a "pock" is formed on the part inoculated. This produces "immunity," or protection against the germs of the disease should the person be exposed to smallpox.

It is a measure of protection that should not be denied anyone. Every baby should be vaccinated against smallpox before reaching its first birthday. As a rule the vaccination is made when the infant is about six months old. If vaccination against smallpox were enforced the disease would soon disappear.

A Review of the Day's News

—By Arthur Brisbane—

ON THE birthdays of great men it is customary to say:
"If so and so could come back."On this, Lincoln's birthday, you are inclined to say:
"Thank heaven, Lincoln cannot come back."

He would find too many things to worry and puzzle him from Key West to Seattle, and from San Diego northeast to Portland, Me. In Lincoln's mind one thousand dollars was a respectable amount of money. He would find his country moved up to the "billion dollar unit." The "gigantic debt of one billion seven hundred millions" piled up by the Civil War would attract little attention in modern finance.

Nevertheless, Lincoln was a great American, greatest of all except one. And his mother, Nancy Hanke, was a great woman, never forget her.

You are glad that on his birthday Lincoln lies peacefully in his grave, safe from foolishness and worry. That is the one comfort. We die once, and do not return, or if we do, we do not know it.

THE HAUPTMANN jury may be locked up today to discuss its verdict. The trial is an interesting test of the jury system, with men and women of the jury listening to more than one million five hundred thousand words of testimony, a good deal to remember. They have heard scores of witnesses contradict each other under oath, have inspected almost four hundred exhibits, from the clothing of the unhappy Lindbergh child to the ladder, nail holes in the ladder, pieces of board from Hauptmann's house.

MANY newspapermen, experienced in criminal cases, expect conviction. The jury, made up of Col. Lindbergh's neighbors, have heard him say that he recognized Hauptmann's voice as that of the man who took the ransom money.

Much testimony has been contradicted, but there is no denial of the fact that Hauptmann possessed thousands of dollars of ransom, the identical gold certificates that Col. Lindbergh paid in the hope of recovering his child.

THE LAW says that the accused must prove his innocence, but that the prosecution must prove his guilt.

That is not the situation in the public mind. At this Hauptmann trial, the accused, being found in possession of money paid for the return of the kidnapped child, is expected to prove his innocence of the kidnapping.

THE SUGGESTION was published here that the Supreme Court, declaring laws passed by Congress and approved by the President unconstitutional, might itself be acting unconstitutionally. Some readers indicate a disturbance, causing them to send telegrams.

The veto power is so well established in the Supreme Court by now, that it probably will not be changed. Few sensible Americans would want it changed. The facts are none the less interesting. Some readers fear that with the Supreme Court's power impaired, some demagogue might control Congress and run wild.

He might indeed. Also, the same demagogue— you could almost name him, might cause himself to be elected President of the United States, promising to "rob the rich and divide the proceeds."

He also could run wild, for he need only to exercise his constitutional power, add ten men to the Supreme Court, to do exactly as he pleased.

You can't keep men or nations from mistakes by written words. Their common sense must do that.

"THE LADY DANCES" by MARGE STANLEY

CHAPTER XXI

Mark saw Vanya at the red-iron lamp beyond the Diver's Helmet. A little heap of white clothes beside her. Barreled, her tiny feet in worn slippers, she seemed charming to Mark, yet the memory of her yielding last night displeased him.

"She's rated herself," he reflected. "The best thing for me is to avoid her until the mail packet sails."

And he did avoid her—for nearly the entire day. Dusk found him apologizing to his own strict New England code and nevertheless approaching Vanya where she sat at the extremity of the point.

Vanya looked up with a wan smile at his approach; she seemed spiritless, forlorn, sitting alone in the darkness. She had changed her dress to her worn white breeches and a sleeveless blouse, and she seemed amazingly slender and tiny.

"Boys!" wasn't the word, Mark thought—she looked "feminine" enough; "trim, neat, tailored," came closer to the point. On an impulse, he leaned over her and kissed her rather lightly on her lips; she made no move to evade him, but likewise made no response.

He seated himself beside her.

"Vanya," he said, "I spent the whole day trying to avoid you."

She nodded. "I noticed it."

And did you know why?"

"Of course," she looked at him gravely. "It's because you regretted our bargain."

Mark frowned. Did he regret his bargain? He realized that he did. What bothered him was Vanya's easy surrender, and her unresisting acceptance of the position in which he had placed her.

"No," he said. "I keep my bargains."

He looked out at the Porpoise; the ship's harbor lights gleamed in the little cove with errant stars.

"What does Shene use that schooner for?" he asked.

"He pearls," said the girl in a dull voice. "The mate, Orris, is the one that plays the piano, will take it out again in a day or two, and be gone eight or ten weeks."

"Who plays when he's gone?" asked Mark idly.

"Loring," said Vanya. "It's worse than," she added in a low voice.

"Why are you interested in the Porpoise?" she asked after a moment's silence.

"Ways and means!" said Mark. "We must have marriage papers of some sort; I think they may be purchased from Shene. After all, he's a ship's master, with the right to perform marriage ceremonies. But we'll have to arrange the thing before the Porpoise leaves."

"Why?" asked Vanya. "I haven't had any experience with—without—I don't know the rules."

"Because a ship's captain only has the authority to conduct these ceremonies on the high seas. The high seas begin three miles from land and we'll have to sail the Porpoise out, just in case—If the witness think it's authentic, so much the better. This fellow Orris can be one, and one of the crew the other—but they're all black, aren't they?"

"Yes," said the girl.

"Well, there's bound to be a mission boy among them who can scrawl his name. Or we could take Loring—"

"Loring!" cried Vanya. "Never! Never in the world! This business is degrading enough without him—"

She ended in a choked sob.

"Degrading?" said Mark cruelly.

"Why should that matter? You chose your own way out of this!"

"I'm sorry," said the girl, relapsing into the lifeless tone of her previous remarks. "I'm sorry, but please—not Loring! I couldn't stand the bitter, shrewd, smirking face he'd put on!"

"Would you have him wear the regalia of a wedding guest?" sneered Mark. "But all right—not Loring."

"When can we get the—the thing over with?" the girl asked.

"Tomorrow—tomorrow!" said Mark. "The sooner the better!"

Then out of the night rose Loring's voice, oddly shrill, in a weird sort of chant.

England is a woman, calling me again With a voice inhuman To a world of men! England's eyes are like the lights Seen on foggy London nights With a beckoning that invites England is a woman!

Vanya shuddered at Mark's side; seemed nervous and distraught at the uncanny keening voice.

"Drunk again!" said Mark. "Where the devil did he get the liquor?"

"He's not drunk," said the girl. "When he's drunk he sings about Hong and Shene. Sometimes he sings sober, like this, and that's the worst of all."

Again rose the strang song, like the voice of a disembodied spirit drifting out of some invisible bourne.

"Tonga is a woman Lying in a fen. With the art to summon Evil out of men! Tonga's breath is passion-hot, Whisping, 'Loring—drunken sot—Here you stay and here you rot!'"

Tonga is a woman! The voice rose to a shrill, bitter, nerve-racking climax, and died into silence. Vanya clenched her white little hands into fists, and writhed under the spell of some powerful emotion.

"I hate him!" she murmured. "I hate him the worst of all at times; He won't forget, and he won't let anyone forget!"

She was almost sobbing. Mark drew her into his arms in an impulse to comfort her. She twisted until her face, with its haunted eyes, looked up into his. She reached her hand up and touched his bronzed cheek.

"I know now that our bargain was no mistake," she said. "It's worth everything to leave this place—everything! To see clean show again, and normal people!"

Vanya thrust herself violently from his arms and ran down the coral spit toward the Cove.

She paused, staring off into the darkness where Loring was weaving his disturbing thoughts.

"Don't you realize the curse of this place, Mark?" she continued dreadingly. It was the first time she had ever used his given name, the sound of it on her lips sent a curious thrill through him. "It's this," she continued. "That every person here grows to hate the others. Hong hates Loring and Shene, and Loring hates Shene and Hong, and Shene hates all of us, and I'm no different. Only you, cold and strong, and fresh from a clean Northern land, are not yet one of us, we don't hate you and you don't hate us—yet!"

She closed her eyes.

"You're cruel and heartless, Mark; yet you're a better refuge than Tonga offers."

However, Mark was feeling anything but cruel and heartless. A confused babel of emotions stirred in him that he could analyze, he knew only that sympathy moved him for the grave girl in his arms. Her lips were very close, he pressed a kiss on them. A mist dropped over him; he realized vaguely that his kisses were growing fiercer, bruising, passionate and a moment later Vanya was twisting, desperately away, beating at his face and shoulders.

She thrust herself violently from his arms and ran down the coral spit toward the Cove.

"Vanya!" he called after her.

She stopped, looking back at him, he could hear the panting of her breath.

"The mail packet doesn't sail for three weeks!" she said.

A honeymoon in Eelipse

"We can manage!" said Pearly Shene. "They won't know nothing they'll say where I tell 'em!"

The Porpoise was slipping easily away from Tongatabu, rounding the reef into the open sea. Vanya wearing the long black dress she had worn the first time Mark ever laid eyes on her, stood silently beside Shene in the stern. The unfading tropical sun of the dry sea son blazed down on them, but a fresh wind countered its heat.

Shene spun the wheel; the little schooner heeled over into the wind, and the Cove, deserted except for Loring dozing beneath his tree, slid gradually astern.

"We can fix it," said Shene with a grin intended to be jovial. "I've got a mission boy aboard who can scribble his name—Paul Tubou. He'll do for the second witness. And neither him nor Orris will know but what it's a genuine splice. So they won't talk, and as for Pearly Shene—he never talks out o' turn!"

Vanya's nervousness was becoming obvious, she gave an impatient gesture at Shene's remarks, and turned to walk forward along the deck. The breeze whipped her clothes about her. Shene followed her with his eyes.

Shows How Old Basements May Be Brought To Life

How an unused basement was converted into an attractive living space is shown in these illustrations. Above is the completed room. Installation of new automatic heating equipment made this transformation possible.

The long-neglected basement is coming back to life. Many home owners throughout the country are transforming this space, which in the past has been little used, into an attractive play room or recreation room or into living quarters.

This transformation has been made possible by the new types of heating equipment now on the market which eliminate dirt and free much of the space formerly used for fuel storage.

Improvements to the basement can now be made with no down payment and on liberal monthly terms through credit facilities opened up by the National Housing Act.

From your local bank or other financial institution approved by the Federal Housing Administration you can borrow up to $2,000, repayable in a period up to 3 years, (5 years in certain cases) for improvements of this kind.

Many people in Salem are expected to make improvements of this sort as a part of the Better Housing Program.

The first step in building a modern basement is, of course, a solid floor and complete waterproofing of foundation walls. This done, the walls and floors can be painted or covered with a number of the attractive materials now on the market.

In partitioning off the basement it is advisable, where possible, to have the stairway lead directly to the recreation or play room, so that guests will not have to pass through the furnace room.

Lincoln Day Rally Barred At State By University Prexy

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13.—Ohio State university—host last year to a bitter compulsory military drill controversy—today was the target of new charges of "arbitrary" action following a student meeting protesting denial of permission to hold a Lincoln day-Scottsboro rally in the administration building auditorium.

While student leaders charged President George W. Rightmire with putting an "arbitrary gag on student opinion," the President, in a return of student-administration quarrels, replied:

"I will not permit such a meeting on state property. The Scottsboro case (in which nine Negro youths are charged with assaulting two white girls while riding on a freight train in Alabama) is still before the courts and the protests should be withheld in deference to judicial procedure."

Undaunted, more than 250 students held their protest meeting while other students unympathetic with their stand hooted and sounded automobile horns. The national student league sponsored the meeting and passed around mimeographed notices headed in large letters:

"Huey Long or Dr. Rightmire?"

FATE OF BRUNO IN JURY'S HANDS

One of Three Verdicts Possible, Jurors Told By Justice

the defense contention that a gang perpetrated the crime. Referring to the testimony of Arthur Koehler, wood expert, on the ladder, he said: "You should consider the marks upon the wood and give the evidence in respect thereto such weight as you think it entitled to after a consideration of the credibility of the witness." As to Hauptmann's own testimony: "His interest in the result may be taken into consideration on the question of whether he is telling the truth. His previous convictions of crime may be considered only as affecting his credit as a witness." Of Amanda Heckmuth, the aged woman who said she saw Hauptmann with a ladder in a car near the Lindbergh home, on the day of the crime: "This testimony, if true, is highly significant. Do you think that there is any reason upon the whole to doubt the old man's testimony? May he not have well and easily remembered the circumstance in view of the fact that that very night the child was carried away?"

When Justice Trenchard finished his charge he had to warn the spectators to cease their "humming and buzzing." He told the attorneys to argue any exceptions to his charge after the jury retired.

As to Hauptmann's alibi witnesses, the judge told the jury: "You should consider the fact, where it is the fact, that several of the witnesses have been convicted of crime and determine whether or not their credibility has been affected thereby. And where it appears that witnesses have made contradictory statements you should consider that fact and determine their credibility as affected thereby."

His remark on circumstantial evidence was: "When the case against the defendant is made up wholly of a chain of circumstances and there is reasonable doubt as to any fact the existence of which is essential to establish guilt, the defendant should be acquitted."

"It is not sufficient that the circumstances prove, coincide with, account for and therefore render probable the hypothesis that is sought to be established by the prosecution. They must include a moral certainty every other hypothesis but the single one of guilt."

Crooner Vallee Is Victor In Law Suit

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Pay Webb Vallee today lost her attempt in supreme court to obtain a more generous slice of the income of her estranged husband, Rudy Vallee, the crooner.

Justice Salvatore Cotillo ended the action by granting a motion to dismiss the case which had been made by counsel for Vallee. The justice ruled that Mrs. Vallee had not proved her allegations that the separation agreement with her husband had been made through coercion and under duress.

The financial clause of the agreement gives Mrs. Vallee $100 a week maintenance money.

Ohio Liquor Exempt From Drug Labeling

COLUMBUS, Feb. 13.—Whiskey sold by the Ohio Liquor Control department does not have to comply with the pure food and drug laws with respect to labeling, the Ohio supreme court ruled today in an unanimous decision.

The court held that the pure food and drug law applies to whiskey only when it is sold as a drug.

Denies Ownership

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13.—Despite his denial of ownership of a Zanesville building in which federal agents found a $70,000 illicit distillery, Chalmers O. Milligan, of Crooksville today was under $1,000 bond pending grand jury action on ten charges of conspiracy. He also denied knowledge of the alcohol plant and said he had sold the building before federal agents raided it. He was given a preliminary hearing by U. S. Commissioner Joseph W. Horner.

Police Face Probe

DELAWARE, O., Feb. 13.—Delaware police today faced an investigation following two recent slayings and a holdup. The chamber of commerce demanded the investigation and suggested organization of a force of 25 vigilantes.

POYNETTE, Wis.—Wisconsin's experimental fur farm now is equipped with a laboratory where new types of animals are developed and other free service carried on for the state's 200 fur farmers and for conservation generally. It is believed to be the only one of its kind in the country. One of the experiments resulted in crossing black raccoons with native Wisconsin gray raccoons, giving a dark gray healthy animal.

Advocates of lighter-than-aircraft as part of the nation's defenses were calling for a suspension of judgment until all the facts were gathered and Brig. Gen. William D. Mitchell, former chief of the navy air corps, said the Macon and other navy dirigibles have "not had trained crews."

The accident, he said, "should not affect the policy of building commercial airships to be operated in conjunction with the Graf Zeppelin so as to train American crews."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Major General George E. Leach, chief of the national guard bureau, cited the 13th field artillery, Ohio national guard, at Cleveland, Canton, Youngstown, Lakewood, Alliance, Toledo, Bowling Green, Lima and Piqua for outstanding merit for the 1934 training year.

American Liberties Being Violated, Is Hoover's Warning

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Herbert Hoover sees violation of "fundamental American liberty" as a threat to the "life principle" of the nation.

That was his warning at a Lincoln day dinner of the national Republican club last night at which he called Abraham Lincoln an "inspiration" to America in the present period of its history.

"Lincoln was a great liberal," said the former president.

Marriage Licenses Are Free From Tax, Commission Rules

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Feb. 12.—The Tax Commission today exempted marriage licenses from the 3 per cent sales tax.

Probate judges who sell "marriage bonds" or "marriage certificates" are not vendors within the meaning of the sales tax law, the commission ruled.

It declared sales of such documents to judges to be sales to consumers, and the persons making the sales must collect the tax on the basis of the price charged the probate judges.

Three other rulings were issued by the commission regarding the sales tax.

Other Rulings Made

Sales to charitable and religious organizations are not taxable when the purchase is made for purposes of resale. Such organizations may make sales of property without collecting a tax provided the income is used to promote their activities.

Vendors selling to charitable or religious societies shall collect a tax unless they receive certificates of resale.

Blacksmiths are vendors and are required to obtain a vendor's license and collect a sales tax on all articles they sell. In cases of repairing goods, the charge for personal service only may be omitted from taxation if it is itemized separately.

Hotel and restaurant guest checks for food represent individual transactions, with the tax to be computed on the amount on each individual check, regardless of the fact that one person may pay for all in a lump sum.

Profits Gain

Once only a poor relation of major sports, basketball is gradually winning a place as a money game in the Big Ten Conference, according to Rollie Williams, University of Iowa cage mentor.

"Basketball is growing in popularity every year," Williams said. "Where it used to be supported by football gate receipts, now it contributes a fair share toward the athletic treasury of most Big Ten schools."

"Besides drawing larger crowds than formerly, a basketball team can play a 26 game schedule every year and make a profit on most games whereas in football you have a shorter schedule and take a long chance on the weather and many other things."

Funeral bells were tolling today in Akron over the fact that the Firestone club which has staged professional boxing shows twice a month almost regularly since 1920, has discontinued its events.

The Goodyear local boxing shows also are being discontinued.

Blame for the demise of pro boxing was laid primarily upon wrestling although the depression and taxes added weakening blows.

Joe Cascarella, singing pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics is to get his microphone chance Saturday morning.

Victory Over Alliance Friday Would Boost Quaker's N.E.O. Title Hopes

Salem Must Knock Off Aviators To Continue Race for League Crown

Coach Brown Drills His Flippers Preparatory To Meeting An Alliance Quintet Which Has Improved In Recent Encounters

By RAY L. DEAN, News Sports Editor

The Salem High school basketball aces, victors in 12 out of 14 encounters so far this season and claimants to the Columbiana county crown championship, now are after the Northeastern Ohio Big Six league crown which they are within three steps of attaining.

Coach Herb Brown's Quaker tossers, by beating the invading Alliance High school flippers here Friday night, would then have only Niles and Struthers to beat in order to annex the N. E. O. title. The latter two teams complete the Salem High cage schedule for the season. The Quakers, by defeating the Barborton Magics last Saturday, settled down as the main contender for the league honor.

But, the Salem-Alliance game here Friday by no means will clear up the race if the Quakers lose. Two other schools, Struthers and Massillon, then would be considered. Struthers, which faces Salem here on Friday night, Niles here on Feb. 23 and Struthers on March 1.

Struthers, too, has to meet the Aviators in a league tilt, before the Salem-Struthers game.

Alliance, well aware that a victory over the Brownmen here this week, will place them as favorites in the loop, are invading the Quaker court with full intentions of staging a hard fight to again trounce the Quakers whom they defeated in an upset encounter at Alliance on Jan. 18.

Coach Ralph Whitacre's Aviators blossomed into practically a different team since midseason. Not only did they upset Salem but turned back a strong Canton McKinley High quintet only last Friday. The game, up until the closing minutes of play, revealed an Aviator squad that completely outclassed the McKinley Bulldogs.

Quakers Practice

Salem can't afford to depend on a rally to win this week. It must be a fight from the start. Coach Brown realizes this and has had his lads pacing the high school floor in all phases of offensive and defensive ball. The Quakers, too, have been drilling for improvement of charity shooting.

The Brownmen, undefeated on their home floor, also will have that slate to keep clean.

Starks, Negro center for Alliance, and Seufert, guard, will be watched closely by Salem Friday. It was Starks and Seufert who set things in reverse for Salem about a month ago when they scored eight and seven points respectively. Cunin, another Aviator guard, scored four points as the Aviators topped Salem, 21-20.

It is not known whether Coach Brown will start Earl Zelle, Quaker forward, who's been playing a wonderful game in recent encounters. Throughout the season Brown has maintained, with one exception on his regular starters of Mullins and Cope, forwards; Palmer, center, and Beck and McCloskey, guards.

With Zelle heading the replacement material, others include John Lutsch, Eddie Pukalski, Kenneth Shears, and Paul Williamson.

Greenford Quintet Will Play Milton

GREENFORD, Sept. 13.—Greenford High school's basketball quintet, victorious over North Jackson last week, will play Milton on Friday.

Girls To Test Cage Rules At National Meet

Fiske Chosen Bobsled Pilot

Olympic Winner Will Represent U. S. In German Races

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Billy Fiske, demon bobsled pilot who won the Olympic four-man bobsled title for Uncle Sam in 1928 and 1932, again will lead America's bobsled forces in the 1936 competition in Germany.

While unable to compete in the tryouts just concluded because of engagements on European runs, Fiske was chosen last night on basis of past performances to head a 15-man squad which the United States hopes to send to Garmisch-Partenkirchen in the Bavarian Alps.

Other members of the squad are: Donna Fox of New York City and Ivan Brown of Keene Valley, winners of the four-man and two-man trials respectively the past four days; Gilbert Colgate, New York; Richard Lawrence, White Plains; J. Hubert and Curtis Stevens, James Bickford, Robert T. Martin, Crawford C. Merkle, John J. Shene, Francis Tyler and E. Hugh Varnum, Lake Placid; A. M. Washbond, Keene Valley and Max T. Bly, Lake George.

Women's Tourney At Wichita, Kan.

Tulsa Stenographers Are Defending Title Holders

BY A. E. LYONS
International News Service Sports Writer

WICHITA, Kan., Feb. 13.—Hoops, my dears! (Basketball hoops).

The ladies, adept in the art of courting since the beginning of time, come into their own here March 26 with the opening of the Women's National A. A. U. basketball tournament.

Thirty-two of the outstanding feminine sextets of the United States take the floor at the Forum that day to start the grueling elimination process which winds up March 30 with the survivors clashing for the championship.

The Tulsa Stenographers are the defending title holders. All games will be played under girl's rules, with three players of each sextet restricted to either half of the court. A men's rules bracket, such as was indicated in last year's meet, was voted out by the National A. A. U. in convention at Miami, Fla.

However, a set of exhibition games will be staged before the classic to test four proposed major revisions in the girl's rules, and if found to improve the game will be adopted next year.

Ice Marathon

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 13.—A 25-mile ice skating marathon will be held at the Winter Garden here Feb. 17. Some of the world's greatest skaters, including Irving Jaffee of New York, winner of the 1932 Olympic 5,000 and 1,000 meter titles, are entered. Eddie O'Brien, Cleveland, O., and Paul Boudreau, Schenectady, N. Y., are also entered.

The proposed changes:
1. Elimination of the "overguarding" penalty while a forward is in the act of firing at the basket.
2. Introduction of a running guard eligible to enter the forward zone and score if possible, with the corresponding forward opponent also allowed to cross the center line to act as a guard.
3. Allowance of four personal fouls rather than the maximum of three that disqualify a player now.
4. The requirement that a fouled player must do her own free-throwing, with the additional requirement that a guard who has been fouled will try her free throw at the opponent's basket, the ball being dead whether the shot is made or missed.

The four rules to be given a special test this year were chosen as the outstanding features of the masculine regulations.

Bargains are plentiful. The ads will tell you where.

Studebakers To Play Canton Texaco Clowns In Class A Encounter

Tonight's Memorial Hall Bill of Fare Also Includes Playoff Match Between Columbians and Trojans, Class B Leaders

Only two games are on tap for Memorial building basketball fans tonight.

Those two games, however, will be attractive enough.

The first game will be a playoff match for the first round championship of the Class "B" league between the St. Paul Columbians and the Trojans.

Canton's Texaco Clowns will provide the opposition for the Altohus Studebakers in the main tilt of the evening. The Studebakers, who gave the Warren Thomas Steels a battle of it last week, will be hosts to another strong outfit in the Texaco squad.

Manager Joe Kelly explained today that the Pennzlip Girls were unable to book a foe for tonight and consequently only two games will comprise the basketball bill of fare.

The Columbians, who have been setting a fast pace in their loop, will find a tough opponent in the Trojans. The Columbians boast such players as Scullion and Yeager at the forwards; McCloskey, center; Alaback and Himmelsbach, guards, and others.

The Studebakers, who in recent encounters broke even with the Warren Steels, are capable of taking on such strong teams as the Steels and the Clowns, for they themselves are comparable to any Class AA team in this district.

A glance down the Studebaker lineup shows a roster of stars, all of whom were players in their high school days. Following the game consistently since then they have moulded themselves into a classy aggregation capable of staging spectacular play.

MACON SINKS IN PACIFIC WATER

Craft Drops 10 Miles Off California Coast; Crew Is Saved

Apparently was not known by the naval officers themselves whose cryptic wireless messages told the dramatic story of the end of the Macon and the rescue of most of her crew.

Rear Admiral C. E. Courtney of the Cruiser Richmond, which picked up 64 survivors, said the number 9 cell had burst. Earlier Commander Wiley had said it was cells 1 and 2.

Wiley Tells Story

Wiley's story of the crash follows: "While off Pt. Sur, a course north, all engines standard speed 63 knots, altitude 1250 feet, air squally about 5:18 p. m. (P. S. T.) a casualty occurred in stern."

"I thought elevator control carried away. Ship took a bow up inclination, rose up idly. Discipline excellent and all hands had alarm in time to don life jackets."

The lighthouse keeper at Point Sur told of seeing the airship suddenly sink and then raise rapidly and disappear from sight so that he could not see it through the fog even with powerful glasses.

Simultaneously Wiley sent out his only SOS, reporting the ship was "falling."

Naval Craft Respond

Naval craft in the immediate vicinity headed at once for the Macon's position, and Admiral J. M. Reeves, commanding the fleet maneuvers, took charge of all air lines to direct the search.

Thirty boats in the area, mostly fighting craft steaming for San Francisco bay where the Macon was a familiar sight, turned to her aid.

Six coast guard cutters were ordered to put out from various California ports—the Calypso, Tahoe, Shawnee, Ariadne, Perseus and Hermes.

All hands in the Macon Island navy yard in San Francisco bay were ordered to stand by. The Red Cross directed nearby agencies to be ready to lend aid. The naval hospital ship Relief was ordered to speed to the scene from Southern California.

Three ships, breaking from the column of cruisers, with the aid of their powerful searchlights and calcium flares let off by the Macon quickly picked up the 81 survivors.

The Richmond took aboard 64, the Concord 11 and the Cincinnati 6. After a futile search of the dark waters for the two missing men, they continued to San Francisco.

President Roosevelt, as soon as he heard of the disaster, phoned the naval communication headquarters to obtain first hand information of the Macon's casualty.

As messages relating to the crash flashed into the capital, these were quickly relayed to the president's desk. The chief executive was known to be relieved that the casualty list would be small.

Hoover Receives News

Former President Herbert Hoover received the startling news while he was attending a Lincoln day dinner in New York.

"This is very sad news indeed," said the former president. "The Macon was launched during my administration and I hope that all of those aboard are alive and safe."

It was indicated by the navy department in Washington that a naval board of inquiry to attempt a determination of the cause of the Macon's crash would be appointed as soon as direct information was received from Admiral Reeves and Commander Wiley.

Looked As Though He Liked the Car

READING, Pa., Feb. 13.—Daniel Dudley, private detective, sat in the office of Herman Charles Lease, conferring on a prospective case.

They faced a window, and outside at the curb was the detective's automobile.

"That fellow there certainly knows a good car when he sees one," said Dudley, "look how he's giving my new machine the once over."

"M-u-m-m," agreed the alderman. "Now look," said Dudley, "he's taking a peak inside. Maybe he wants to buy one like—hey! stop thief!"

City police are helping the private detective look for his stolen car.

Reams To Report

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13.—Frazier Reams, Ohio penitentiary investigator, was expected today to give Governor Davey his report recommending removal of Preston E. Thomas, whom the governor suspended as a result of Reams' investigation. He planned also to urge reorganization of the prison administration.

Britain and France Approve of Italy's Ethiopian Demands

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Both Great Britain and France it was indicated in official circles today, have let King Haile Selassie of Ethiopia know they consider it advisable for his country to meet Italy's demands as quickly as possible.

Ethiopia's flat denial of Italian charges as published yesterday is regarded critically by officials here, who believe Ethiopia is making a grave error in adopting these tactics.

Great Britain and France have known for a long time of the Italian demands, just made public, and are understood to be satisfied that Premier Mussolini's government has been subjected to extreme provocation.

New Car Shipment Bombed at Toledo

(By Associated Press)

TOLEDO, Feb. 13.—Two mysterious bomb explosions early today virtually wrecked a shipment of new automobiles on an interstate trailer truck parked on the Telegraph road a mile north of the city limits.

The blast, which were about one minute apart, scattered fenders and parts of three new automobiles over a wide area in a field adjoining the gasoline service station of Floyd Tiplady, where the drivers were resting after a trip from Detroit en route to Conneaut, O. The inch steel girders of the trailer were damaged.

Fred Schana and George Hunsberger, Buffalo, N. Y., drivers of the transport, which is owned by the M. and G. Convoy, Inc., Buffalo, said they believed that labor troubles were the cause of the attack although they had experienced no difficulty so far this year.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and 1/2 of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't feel like a whipped omelet, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for 1 may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and scalds the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—24¢, C1934, C.M.C.

Myrna Loy, Cary Grant Co-Starred In "Wings In the Dark" Now Playing

FOR those who like their drama replete with thrills, excitement and romance, "Wings In the Dark" at the State today and Thursday should be marked on their list.

A love story laid against the plot of a pilot who dares death in the perfection of "blind-flying". It stars Myrna Loy and Cary Grant as a pair of flying dare devils. It brings aviation up to date and ahead of the times by dealing with innovations in blind flying which have not as yet been perfected. Around this technical problem is a love story of a struggle and achievement.

The story deals with a young pilot who is an inventor of instruments for blind flying. Aided by a beautiful stunt flyer, who at first did nothing but arouse his jealousy, he prepares to set out on a trans-oceanic hop. At the very last he is blinded by a flash of flame. The doctor says that he may see again but not soon. Fearing darkness and dependence Ken (Cary Grant) flees to a hide-away in the woods. Sheila (Miss Loy) conspires with Ken's mechanic to get him to accept a trained "Seeing Eye" dog. Her plan works and Ken's confidence is gradually restored. He conceives the idea of perfecting his instruments so that even in his blind condition he can fly a plane.

But he hasn't counted on money and the company takes back his plane. Sheila, devoted to him more than she has ever admitted, undertakes a flight from Moscow to New York to get the money necessary for him to buy back his plane.

The climax of the film is guaranteed for thrills and the scenes are particularly well done. When Ken goes out to save Sheila from a forced landing using his untried invention for blind flying there is plenty of excitement and the air scenes are great.

With the stars are Roscoe Karns, as Sheila's fast talking press agent, Hobart Cavanaugh, Russell Hopton, Lee Phelps, Graham McNamee, Rita Owen and Bert Hanlon.
